That somebody is mistaken, there can be the house of Dr. Braecklein. About 1 o'clock this morning the doctor was called up out of bed to go and see a man who had been shot in the head with a ball from a rife. The doctor went, and this morning he told Mr. Schlief that a row had occurre about midnight in the saloon of Albert Myers, with the result above narrated. He ted that the wound had been't ed to, but the ball had not been extracted and it was impossible to tell whether the for what it is worth. "You pays your
